

Sewer Line Camera Scopes

As a homeowner, you are responsible to repair/maintain the sewer line from the main sewer line buried in the street in front of your house, all the way to your house. These laterals are installed when the house is built and can last for decades, but when there is a problem they are very expensive to repair.

Sewer lateral scopes are recommended for older homes, homes that have uneven landscaping, yards with large trees, or homes with slow drains. Ideally, scopes should be performed from the lowest access point inside the house, or from the roof vent. Scopes that are performed from the sewer access outside of the home might miss problems underneath the home.

There are companies that provide insurance on sewer laterals. You can check with HomeServe.com, your local utility company, your home insurance company, or other companies to see about insurance coverage in your area.
